

expected would have been Streaming: But in less than an Hour, the Clouds (which had been pretty still) began to move to the S. W. and at last obscured the whole Hemisphere; which before was all clear enough (except towards the North) to shew the Stars, although bespread with Vapours, like a thin Fog, a little inclining to red.

This Relation I thought it convenient to give you, and the Illustrious Society, because it may assist such as are wiser than my self to discover the Nature of this difficult Phænomenon.

Your much obliged

Humble Servant,

W. DERHAM.

II. A remarkable Conformation of the Urinary Parts, communicated in a Letter to the Same, by Mr. John Budgen.

I Am advised to communicate to you a very uncommon Case, which I met with in my Country Practice, and is as follows.

In Villa Com' Surriae, Ockley vulgo dicta, anno 1711 nata est Infantula, cuius in Tergo, circa vertebrae inferiores, apparuit Tumor indolens, cutis colori, rem, Oviq; columbini majusculi magnitudinem refe-rens, qui cum Puellâ tantoperè concrevit, ut cîrcitè nonum, vel decimum ætatis annum, ubi primùm con-spexi, Vesicam vitulinam, aëre distentam, sed sine Cervice, planè repræsentaverit. Anno præsenti (viz.

1728.) Vesicæ bubulinæ magnitudinem æquabat. Die 29 Jan. proxime elapso in Lecto jacenti disruptus est hic Tumor, a quo multum Liquoris, instar Urinæ pro-fluebat. Re perspectâ, invenimus Tunicas (& interiùs Materiam mucosam) Ureteres, Venas, & Arterias, tales omnino, quales Vesica habere consuevit: nec defuit commercium quoddam cum Partibus internis per foramen in vertebris Digitum hominis minorem in Abdomen admittens, quod Vasa memorata recipiebat.
2º Die Feb. 1728, horam circiter decimam nocturnam objit Puella; & si Cadaver aperire per Parentes, huic Rei strenuè reclamantes, licuisset, credor quidem in Abdomine, Vesicæ Cervicem, & nullam aliam Vesicam inveniremus; non enim post ruptum Tumorem vel semèl minxerat.

Dat. 3º Die Feb. 1728.

I hope you'll be pleased to take this in good Part,
from,

*S I R, your very Darking, Ap. 18, in Surry, 1729.
humble Servant,*

JOHN BUDGEN.
